

Intelligent (adaptive) Traffic Controller

Sinowatcher Technology is a leading global supplier in the field of intelligent transport systems. We provide good quality products to meet different customer's needs. So we have high professional requirements for each member. I'm glad to share with you all the trainings we had recently.

Last week, our company's engineer provided training to us for intelligent traffic controller which has many advantages, such as, front door and back door design, single output switch, single fuse for each output, touch type LCD screen, net-working function, vehicle detector connection, etc. We also had training about general intersection configuration, types and specifications of countdown timer. After a series of training, we learned more about the controller system and its advantages.

We arrange training on products/systems every month among all members, which is so useful to help us provide more professional service to you. Dear customers, if you have any interest or questions about what we learned about this intelligent traffic controller, please contact us at any time.

We are here waiting for you!
